Put Your Cultural Heritage Destination on the Map

Tribal Community Partner Program

The National Park Service (NPS) and the American Indian Alaska Native Tourism Association (AIANTA) invite Tribal Nations and Native-owned businesses to partner with us on a sustainable tourism program that will help travelers find unique local tourism experiences along the Lewis and Clark National Historic Trail.

Your Story, Your Voice

We believe that the best travel advice comes from the people who live locally. As a Tribe or Native-owned business located along the Trail, we encourage you to nominate your Tribal Nation, cultural heritage destination, business, event or other point of interest to be shared with travelers on www.lewisandclark.travel and/or www.NativeAmerica.travel.

Participation is completely free and it only takes a few minutes to nominate a place to be included on the websites.

Nominations

Nominations can include:

- Unique places to stay
- Scenic landscapes
- Native American sites
- Historic buildings
- Parks and trails
- Local places to eat
- Historic & cultural sites
- Festivals & events
- Artist studios & galleries
- Local guides

1. The Tribal Nation or Native-owned business is located in close proximity (within 50 miles) to the official route of the Lewis and Clark National Historic Trail.
2. Cultural Tourism destinations showcase the culture, values and history of the Tribal Nation
