

About the Anza Trail

Administered by the National Park Service, the Juan Bautista de Anza National Historic Trail commemorates the 1775–1776 Spanish land route taken from Sonora, Mexico, to the San Francisco Bay Area. NPS connects the history, culture and outdoor recreation along this 1,200-mile corridor.

Steve Larese, Travel Writer

Steve Larese develops and writes articles and completes photo and video assignments for print, online and social media for a wide range of clients on tight deadlines including Travel Channel, National Geographic Traveler, American Way, Interval World Magazine, New Mexico Journey, VIE Magazine, BBC Travel, Forbes Travel, ShermansTravel.com, U.S News & World Report, Southwest Fly Fishing, Men's Journal, USA Today, Arizona Highways, Rizzoli Books, Schiffer Publishing, Farcountry Press and other national periodicals and books.

(505) 331-8358 cell/text, stevolarese@gmail.com

Dr. Margaret Pearce, Cartographer

Margaret Pearce is Citizen Band Potawatomi and a cartographer and writer. She grew up on Seneca territory at Ga'sgöhsagö (Rochester, NY) and these days is grateful to be a guest on Penobscot territory at Catawamkeag (Rockland, Maine). Her maps have been exhibited nationally and internationally and include Coming Home to Indigenous Place Names in Canada (2017); Iyoka Eli-Wihtamakw K tahkinawal / This Is How We Name Our Lands (2015); They Would Not Take Me There: People Places and Stories from Champlain's Travels in Canada, 1603–1616 (2008); and The Intricacy of These Turns & Windings: A Voyageur's Map (2005).

(740) 590-9978 cell/text, margaret@studio1to1.net

About AIANTA

Founded in 1998, AIANTA was established by tribes for tribes to address inequities in the tourism system. Governed by an all-Native board of directors, AIANTA serves as a united voice for the $14 billion Native hospitality sector. AIANTA's priorities are (1) to provide technical assistance and training, research, and publications to American Indian, Alaska Native and Native Hawaiian communities engaged in tourism and hospitality; (2) to facilitate conversations with the Native communities, federal agencies, non-profit associations, and elected officials on the economic and cultural importance of a healthy hospitality industry; (3) to highlight the importance of visiting authentic Native destinations, including cultural, heritage, historic, and artistic sites; and (4) to generate awareness, interest and demand for these destinations with domestic and international travelers, the travel trade and the media.

For More Information Visit:

<https://www.aianta.org/anza-trail/>

AIANTA
American Indian Alaska Native
Tourism Association

TRAVEL GUIDE

to Tribal Nations Along the Juan Bautista de Anza National Historic Trail

In a one-of-a-kind partnership with the National Park Service, AIANTA is chronicling the attractions and businesses of the tribes located on or near the Anza Trail. The three-year partnership will culminate in a print/online guidebook reflecting tribal attractions at key spots along the Trail, and a first-of-its kind map, that will translate key locations along the Trail back in the original native languages.

AIANTA Tribal Relations Team

Gail E. Chehak

Tribal Relations and Outreach Manager

Direct: 505.243.3633

Cell/Text: 505.417.1143

gchehak@aianta.org

Bruce Rettig

Tribal Content Developer

Cell: 530-412-1945

brrettig@aianta.org

Lorraine Gala Lewis

Research and Outreach Specialist

Office: 505.738.7214, ext. 1000 direct

llewis@aianta.org

